The pairs of bullets — one each from each barrel — would tell the tale of what my double preferred, as they would probably start out low and wide at the bottom end of the spectrum, rise and come together as the rifle showed what it prefers, and finally rise higher and separate as velocities continue to increase.

The .35 Whelen is a powerful medium-bore rifle cartridge that does not require a magnum action or a magnum bolt-face. The parent of this cartridge is the .30-06 Springfield, which is necked-up to accept a bullet diameter of .358 in (9.1 mm). This cartridge is more powerful than its parent, especially in killing power on large game.

Bibliography of books on Cartridges or Ammunition. Compiled by Jonathan Uhlman (updated December 2008) An explanatory note: This bibliography for the most part focuses upon 'Primarily Cartridge Oriented' works, and leaves many works where Cartridges are secondary or tertiary to the work off the list. No attempt made to list each edition of a work, such as "Cartridges of the World".

WINCHESTER MODEL 71 INFORMATION. Where did the "71" come from in the Winchester Model 71? By the early part of the 20th century Winchester had moved away from the model introduction year designation of new firearms (i.e. Model 1894, Model 1895, Model 1897, Model 1901) to a sequential designation.

In recent years, the round known as the .444 Marlin has been greatly overshadowed by its older, bigger brother, the .45-70 Government. Both are long, straight-wall, big bore rifle cartridges. There are plenty of good reasons that the .45-70 gets all the press. Not the least of which is a long history with a rich heritage.

+1 for Lyman as the best first and all-around book. Then you may find others that suit you. For instance, I use VV N133 powder for good velocity and low pressure in my .405 WCF, 45-70, and 45-90 lever actions and double rifles, so I have all the VV manuals ever printed.

Practical Dope on the 7.62x39 By C.E. Harris—Updated 3-27-94 I have reloaded thousands of rounds of 7.62X39 ammunition with both cast bullets and jacketed, in the AK and the SKS. I got frustrated with the AK as accuracy of these seems is generally poor, at best about 5-6" at 100 yards. The SKS is more reasonable, about 3-4" and is still a real bargain these days.
